

HOW MUCH YOU YOU LOAN YOUR GOVERNMENT?

ATTORNEY H. S. DIXON SAYS THAT IS QUESTION OF THE HOUR.

IMMEDIATE PURCHASE IS NEEDED

Time for Discussion of Right or Wrong of War Has Gone By.

(By Henry S. Dixon.)

With respect to the purchase of Liberty Bonds there can be no present discussion or debate of the needs or necessities of the case among loyal Americans. The need is imperative. Immediate purchase is required. The time for discussion of the right or wrong of the war has gone by. America is at war. More than 1,500,000 men are now in service in the army and navy. Hundreds of them are from this city and county. They must be supplied with clothing, food and the implements of warfare.

The necessity for vast sums of money is present and immediate. The money must be supplied. It can only be had through taxes and loans. Congress has provided through taxation for the furnishing of about one-fourth of the funds required for the current year. The balance must be had through loans in the way of sale of bonds.

The only question for the individual who has in him or her any love of country or any hope for the maintenance of civilization and free institutions is, how much can I loan the United States.

Every person who has any money; every person who is capable of earning money should furnish a part.

In order to lessen the strain on the banks, the bonds should be paid for in the installments provided for by the Treasury Department and extending over a period of three months. Indeed, it may even be desirable in many instances to arrange for a longer period, which can be done through the local banks, thus enabling many persons to pay from savings and earnings rather than to turn in all of his or her available cash.

The important thing is to subscribe, to do it at once, and to make arrangements for payment that can be carried through.

HERE'S WHAT YOU BUY WITH YOUR $50 LIBERTY BOND.

You buy enough ether or chloroform to anaesthetize 250 or more wounded soldiers during operations.

You buy twenty-five treatments of anti-tetanic serum for gunshot wounds, which, untreated, might develop lockjaw.

You buy three Springfield rifles.

You buy 1,500 rounds of ammunition.

You buy food for one soldier for 150 days.

You buy enough smallpox vaccine to make 500 soldiers immune from that scourge.

You buy a base hospital laboratory.

You buy fifty gallons of peroxide of hydrogen.

You buy four gallons of tincture of iodine.

Look over the above list, decide upon the things that you would particularly like to buy for your country, and then buy a $50 Liberty Bond for each of those things. That's all you have to do. Uncle Sam will do the rest.

And remember—While you are buying those things, which will help win the war and defeat the Kaiser, you are also buying peace and content for your mind, the consciousness of having done your bit for America, and—

You are buying something of solid value for yourself.

EXPECT RENEWAL OF BRITISH BIG PUSH SOON

Artillery fighting last night in the western war theater was confined to the French front, where attacks by the Germans in the Aisne and Champagne sectors, as well as in the Verdun region, were repulsed by General Petain's troops. There is promise of a speedy renewal of the activity in Flanders.

The German high command apparently is anticipating a renewal of the British drive.

There has been a spell of comparatively good weather in the area east of Ypres, where the British steam roller is pushing its way through the German lines.

May Attack Saloniki.

An admission of possible significance was contained in the German statement on the Macedonian front situation. Several villages in the Struma region, on the right flank of the allied lines northwest of Saloniki, have been "ceded" by the Bulgarians to the British, Berlin announces.

A Bulgarian attack on the Saloniki armies of the allies, to which Germany is reported to have been urging King Ferdinand, would not be unexpected. Emperor William's visit to Sofia has been connected by one of the German newspapers with this reported project.

BULLETIN.

Washington, Oct. 17.—Federal Coal Administrator Garfield today warned operators and miners where strikes have occurred or are impending that the government would take charge of production if it continued to be threatened by strikes. After a conference with John Peter White, president of the United Mine Workers, over the strike situation in Illinois, Ohio and Indiana, Mr. Garfield sent a communication to operators and miners as follows:

"American citizens engaged in the mining of coal, whether operators or miners are for the most mindful of the fact that our country is at war and that the burden rests upon them to produce the coal needed without interruption, but there are evidently some who fail to understand the gravity of the situation and who do not hesitate to advocate strikes at the present time as a means of forcing the government to at once decide whether the wage increase agreed to at the recent meeting in Washington by operators and miners of the central district should justly be covered by an advance in the prices fixed by the president."

"The matter has been submitted to me and all concerned are expected to co-operate. I am giving immediate and close attention to the question and hope to reach a decision soon. The only circumstance within my control which will delay that decision will be the violation of the spirit of the arrangement between the operators and miners, which was that under no circumstances should the production of coal in the United States at the present time be allowed to diminish."

"If either the operators or the miners attempt to bring pressure upon me to reach a decision, I shall postpone it and use whatever powers are necessary to compel the production of coal to meet the country's needs."

Springfield, Oct. 17.—Reports received here today indicate that many more coal mines in the central and southern Illinois coal fields are shut down as a part of the movement of miners to force an immediate increase in wages.

It was estimated that sixty mines were idle.

Miners in the northern fields, who have named a committee to formulate new demands, are said to object seriously to the proposed agreement reached at Washington.

YOUTH IS KILLED RETURNING FROM EVE IN HARMON

NINETEEN-YEAR-OLD GALT LAD SUFFERED FRACTURED SKULL.

DRIVER OF THE CAR DISAPPEARED

Victim Was One of Five Guests of Elmer Allen of Lyndon, Ill.

(Special to the Telegraph.)

Sterling, Oct. 17.—Byron, the nineteen-year-old son of Mrs. George Smith of Galt, was killed shortly after last midnight when an automobile owned by Elmer Allen of Lyndon and driven by his nineteen-year-old son, Harold, crashed into the high curbing in front of Compton's pump works, at the intersection of Dixon avenue and First avenue, Rock Falls, throwing the young victim out and fracturing his skull. He died while being moved to the Sterling hospital.

Had Been to Harmon.

The Allen lad, after getting his father's almost new Buick automobile early in the evening, picked up Byron Smith, Fred Stutzke and brother and Frank Jacobsen and brother, all of Galt, and the six went to Harmon, where they spent the evening.

Returning in the heavy rain, young Allen is said by eye witnesses to have driven the car at least fifty miles an hour west on Dixon avenue pavement in Rock Falls. With speed undiminished, the driver attempted to turn the big car south on to First avenue. The wet bricks caused it to skid rapidly and it struck the high curbing sideways.

Did Not Tip Over.

However, despite the momentum with which it was moving, the big machine did not tip over, but the entire left side was crushed in and the windshield was broken, probably by the young victim being hurled through it.

Immediately after the accident, witnesses summoned Dr. Will F. Frye, who is also coroner of Whiteside county, and he ordered the ambulance to remove the injured boy to the hospital. He died on the way to the institution.

Driver Is Missing.

Frank Jacobsen and Fred Stutzke suffered cuts about the head from glass from the windshield, but were otherwise unhurt, and the other three occupants of the car escaped injury of any kind.

As soon as he could entangle himself from the wreckage of the car, the young man disappeared in the darkness and he has not been seen or heard of since. His friends fear that, frightened by the prospect of criminal action being brought against him for the death of his companion, he may have committed self destruction.

Coasting in Summer

Getting Real Fun Out of a Few Barrel Staves

SUMMER coasting is not easy to convince for the city boy, for about the only grass-covered hills he has access to are in the parks, and the "Keep off the grass" signs forbid just such an amusement. But if he is spending some days in the country or lives in the suburbs there are hills aplenty for him.

In the first place you will need a special sled. The one you used last winter, with its iron-shod runners will not do at all, for the runners must be broad, and the whole sled must be both low and light. Still you can make a sled so easily and with such simple materials that, provided you can use a hammer and nails—and what boy cannot?—you need not let this condition of the sport worry you at all.

About all you really need for the construction of your warm-weather sled is a barrel or part of one. Indeed, two stout barrel staves and a couple of odd pieces of wood make just exactly the right sort of sled for the sport.

Get two barrel staves, as long and as broad as possible, but be sure and have them the same length. Should one be slightly longer than the other saw off the end until it is the right length. Now get a stout piece of wood about two and one half feet long, and laying your barrel staves side by side about fourteen inches apart nail the piece of wood to them about eight inches from the ends. Be very careful to drive the nails first through the barrel staves, so that their points will come out on the top of the block of wood. Drive the nails in so deeply that their heads are below the surface of the barrel staves, for their rounded

Quaint Irish Superstitions

IN Ireland, there have been many, many ages curious superstitions regarding fairies. In the olden times these imaginary little elfins were thought to be half human and half spirit nature, and had strange powers over human kind. The good folks of Erin used to propitiate the fairies in many ways, a few of them being as follows:

If a child spilled milk on the floor, the mother would say: "That's for the fairies," thinking that some fairy had caused the accident. Thus the careless child went unreprimanded. If one

Story of a Masterpiece

MOULDERING away on the wall of the old monastery in Milan, Italy, hangs the famous "Last Supper" by Leonardo da Vinci. Like every masterpiece, the painting required many years of patient labor, and as a result of that labor it is perfect in its naturalness of expression and sublime in its story of love. In addition to these qualities it has an incident in its history that contributes not a little toward making it the great teacher it is.

It is said that the artist in painting the faces of the Apostles, studied the countenances of good men he knew. When, however he was ready to paint the face of Jesus in the picture, he could find none that would satisfy his conception; the face that would serve as a model for Christ must be dignified in its simplicity and majestic in its sweetness. After several years of careful search the painter happened to meet one, Pietro Bandinelli, a choir boy of exquisite voice, belonging to the cathedral. Being struck by the beautiful features and tender manner that bespoke an angelic soul, the artist induced the boy to be the study for the painting of the face of Jesus.

All was done most carefully and reverently, but the picture was as yet incomplete, for the face of Jesus was absent. Again the painter, with the zeal of a true lover of his art, set about in search of a countenance that might serve for the face of the traitor. Some years passed before his search was rewarded, and the picture finally completed. As the artist was about to dismiss the miserable and degraded wretch who had been his awful choice, the man looked up at him and said, "you have painted me before." Horrified and dumb with amazement the painter learned that the man was Pietro Bandinelli. During those intervening years Pietro had been at Rome studying music, had met with evil companions, had given himself up to drinking and gambling, and fallen into dissipation and crime. The face that now was the model for the face of Judas, had once been the model for the face of Christ.

A City of Priests

THERE is perhaps no other city in the world where so large a percentage of population are priests, as at Kumbum, Tibet. The name of the place is derived from two Tibetan words which mean, "The Thousand Pictures," and was first given to the famous tree on the leaves of which, it is claimed by the Buddhists, those of great sanctity can see the likeness of Buddha. Around this tree has grown a cloister with hundreds of buildings, and around the cloister a small city, and all bear the same name.

To this sacred monastery have come priests from every part of this hermit nation, and even from nearby tribes, until they number thousands. Though the greater part of them remain walled in this religious prison most of their lives they may be and are often sent far away on pilgrimages for worship or service. Most of them shave their heads, and all are dressed in red and yellow costume which leaves one arm and one shoulder bare like the old Roman toga. They are required to go bare-footed unless sent on journeys; do not dare drink intoxicants, or to marry, or to kill anything that has animal life. There are countless minor rules and there are elaborate ceremonials for the temples and private worship, with prayer-wheels.

The great mass of these priests are poor, and are herded together in living rooms provided by the monastery, but some are well-to-do and club together to own small houses with better accommodations. Others still of higher rank have large dwellings, and a few have beautiful homes. That human nature is very much the same within these sacred precincts as it is in the rest of the world is shown by the manner in which the wealthy priests make servants of their more unfortunate brethren.

Curious School Customs

MEXICAN schoolmasters show their appreciation of a pupil's efforts in a curious manner. The diligent student is allowed to smoke a cigar during the lesson. When the whole class has given satisfaction permission is given for a general smoke, and even the little Mexicans are allowed to light a cigarette for the occasion. Needless to say the schoolmaster himself

FORTUNE TELLING BY CARDS

THE kings are married men of your acquaintances, jacks are single men and queens ladies.

Diamonds—1, a letter; 2 two days; weeks, months or years; 3 a present; 4 marriage; 5 good friend; 6 new friend; 7 legal papers; 8 jealousy; 9 ring; 10 money.

Heart—1 bundle; 2 a kiss; 3 sickness of three or five days; 4 dine out; 5 offer of marriage; 6 conversation; 7 pleasant surprise; 8 little trouble; 9 your wish; 10 a good time.

Clubs—1 your house; 2 two shoes or clothes; 3 a new-born child; 4 unpleasant journey; 5 intrigue or deceit; 6 going on steam cars; 7 unpleasant surprise; 8 drink (generally intoxicants); 9 danger; 10 you are going to the city or some thickly settled place.

Spades—1 (straight) going for a ride (when upside down) a funeral; 2 you will see a coffin; 3 a lie; 4 sickbed; 5 visitor; 6 across the water; 7 unpleasant views; 8 tears; 9 disappointment; 10 night time.

Diamonds and hearts are good cards so when your wish card (9 of hearts) is surrounded by them, you will get your wish. If surrounded by spades, you won't get your wish, but if clubs it's doubtful.

The one whose fortune is to be told should shuffle the cards, first making a wish (secretly)—then let some one cut the cards twice (faced down). Now you have three piles. The fortune teller now turns up the face side of each pile, telling what the top card on each means—for instance, if on the first pile there is the ace or one of the diamonds, on the second five of hearts and on the third six of spades, it will be read thus—"You will receive a letter containing an offer of marriage from across the water."

Now proceed to read the first pile, placing face up, one after the other, on the table. Then read the second pile and lastly the third.

Some go through this three times, others only once. Now have some person pick out 21 cards (after shuffling them and placing face down the table). The fortune teller places the 21 cards in seven piles (one at a time) as follows—first pile to yourself, second to your thoughts, third to your wish, fourth to your house, fifth what you do expect, sixth what you don't expect, seventh what's sure to come true.

BIRD AUGURIES

ACCORDING to the most ancient folk-lore the condition of the weather is told by every feathered creature. Should an owl hoot after sunset we shall have a fine day on the morrow but if he should cry "Huetto" we must expect storms. Coming squalls are also predicted by peacocks screaming at the top of their voices.

Jackdaws wax sorrowful at the thought of approaching foul weather and seek solitude flying singly. But the modest little dove on the contrary, resolves to make the best of good weather while it lasts and preaches wind and rain by returning home much later than usual.

Ducks, swans, and all water fowl give warning by bathing and preening their feathers with extra care, and making a great fuss by clapping their wings. The appearance of the petrel is a notorious omen of foul weather so much so that it has gained the appellation of the "stormy petrel." When a number of these birds gather about the stern of a vessel the sailors begin preparations for warring elements.

Should that unexpectinglly unlucky bird, the owl, be screeching about the house containing an invalid, it is regarded by the superstitious as a sign of death. A similar meaning is attached to a flock of ravens if they cry and fly about in the one spot.

A crow cawing for any length of time portends evils and misfortunes, especially if the bird happens to be over one's head. The Persians immediately killed the unfortunate rooster that took it into its head to crow at the wrong time, as they believed it was the only way to avert harm which would otherwise befall them.

HOW THE NATIONS SLEEP

THERE is a great diversity in the method of sleeping among people of different nations. Indeed the things most necessary to induce sleep for one individual appear frequently, to be just the things that would keep another awake all night.

The European or American in order to sleep well, ordinarily requires a soft pillow under his head; but the Japanese, stretching himself on a rush mat on the floor, puts a hard square block of wood under his head, and does not sleep, well if he does not have it.

The Chinese makes a great deal of the matter of his bed, which is very low, scarcely rising from the floor, but it is often carved exquisitely of wood; and it never occurs to him to make it any softer than the rush mat will render it.

While the people of the Northern countries cannot sleep unless they have plenty of room in which to stretch their legs, the inhabitants of the tropics often curl themselves up like monkeys, at the lower end of a suspended hammock and sleep soundly in that way.

The robust American will cover himself with a pair of blankets and throw his window open to the air, even in the dead of winter, and he will not sometimes complain if there is a little drift of snow across the sill in the morning.

The Russian on the contrary, likes no sleeping place so well as the top of the big soapstone stove in his domicile.

Crawling out of this blistering bed in the morning, he likes to take a plunge in a cold stream, even if he has to break ice to do it.

While the American clings to his feather pillow, he has long since discarded his old-fashioned bed in favor of hair or felt mattress. The feather bed has been relegated to the country, and many people who slept on it in their childhood find it unendurable in their later years.

The Germans not only sleep on a feather bed, but underneath one as well. The feather covering used in Germany, however, is not so large and so thick as the one used as a mattress, and the foreigner who undertakes to sleep beneath it, often finds his feet suffering from cold, while his shoulders are suffering from heat.

of the rim flew into the crowd of Nelson instantly, and probably injuring another man from Cedar

WHAT THE RED CROSS PAYS

73 Officers and Clerks Work Free—486 Are Paid Employees.

Washington, Oct. 17.—A summary of salaries paid at Red Cross national headquarters, made public, shows that 73 officers and clerks are giving their services free, and that 486 members of the staff are paid employees.
Forty-one receive $2,000 or more a year, 39 others receive salaries ranging upward to $5,000 but only three are paid more than the latter sum, and none exceeds $8,000. All others receive less than $2,000, ranging down to $600 and below.

The announcement says that in the summer of 1916, when the Red Cross was on a peace basis, there were 75 paid officers and employees, of whom 29 received salaries ranging from $2-000 to $7,500 a year. The number of paid workers now is being reduced.

KAISER AT CONSTANTINOPLE

Met at the Station by Sultan and Imperial Princes.

London, Oct. 17.—The German emperor arrived at Constantinople, according to a Reuter dispatch received by way of Amsterdam. He was met at the station by the sultan, the imperial princes, grand vizier, ministers, senators, deputies and other prominent personages, including the German admiral Von Koch.

The emperor's reception was imposing. Turkish girls strew flowers in his path. The emperor drove with the sultan and Enver Pasha, minister of war, to the Yildiz Kiosk, where he received the guard of honor.

An Exchange Telegraph dispatch says that after a two days' visit to Constantinople, the emperor will inspect the defenses in the Dardanelles.

German bread to see if it was responsible for his bad health. Berne experts just analyzed the loaf and found it per cent, and the remaining 66 per cent was wood sawdust.

PIPE LINE UNDER SEA

IS THOUGHT PRACTICAL

Irish Manufacturer Submits His Plan for the Enterprise.

An Irish manufacturer has prepared in detail a plan for laying an eight-teen-inch submarine pipe line between the British Isles and America, which, according to estimates, would transmit oil to England at a small fraction of the present transportation cost.

As described, the pipe would be made of steel ribbon on the helical-tube principle, so as to be flexible.
The overlappings of the ribbon as it winds round and round itself would be packed with asbestos twine. The tube would be able to withstand an internal pressure of 2,000 pounds and an external pressure of 10,000 pounds per square inch. Around it would be woven a cotton casing coated with preservative.

To give the pipe longitudinal strength a stranded steel wire would be put inside. Twenty vessels could be employed to lay the pipe, each being assigned to a 130-mile section.

The scheme calls for an outlay of $50,000,000. It is estimated that the transportation cost per 1,000 gallons per 1,000 miles would be about 50 cents. By tank steamers it is about $50.

SENATOR FIGHTS QUIZ

La Follette Refuses to Take Part in Senate Inquiry.

Leaves Statement Admitting St. Paul Speech, and Declares What He Said Was True.

Washington, Oct. 17.—Refusal of Senator La Follette of Wisconsin to submit to informal examination regarding the accuracy of statements in his St. Paul speech held up the proceedings of the Pomerene investigating committee again.

Although the committee expected him to furnish the information desired, Senator La Follette fooled the committee by walking into the room, submitting another letter full of demands and walking right out again.

The committee was angry, but adjournment was taken until this afternoon, when the action of the subcommittee will be determined. It is improbable that any action will be taken other than to obtain full proof of the inaccuracy of La Follette's statement at St. Paul in regard to Secretary Bryan's alleged warning to President Wilson concerning the Lusitania. It is expected that the subcommittee's final report will censure La Follette severely for the inaccuracy of this statement.

Senator La Follette's new demand on the committee was to know the name of the person who accuses him of making false statements. "You say it, your letter," said Senator La Follette in his communication to the committee, "that the question and the only question you are now considering since I furnished you with a copy of the speech is the 'accuracy of statements contained in the speech.' I must be entitled to be advised who has challenged the accuracy of any statement in the speech before another step is taken in this proceeding."

"The resolution of the Minnesota commission of public safety, upon which you assert you are acting, does not challenge the accuracy of any statement made in the speech."

NO U. S. TROOPS LOST AT SEA

Secretary Daniels Denies Latest Lie of Pro-Germans.

Washington, Oct. 17.—The National Committee of Patriotic Societies, which is now carrying on a campaign to combat seditious propaganda, particularly that which finds circulation through conversation, is getting some interesting reports. In numerous towns in the middle West the story is being quietly passed around that several transports have been sunk.

According to this highly colored tale,
a distressed parent, who had not heard from his son for several weeks, finally appealed to Secretary Daniels, and was told "your son and a thousand other American soldiers are at the bottom of the ocean." The national committee showed these reports to Mr. Daniels, who promptly settled the whole matter by saying: "I could not have made any such statement, because there are no American soldiers at the bottom of the ocean."

SELECTS FOR AIR SERVICE

Camp Taylor Applicants Will Be Examined This Week.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 17.—More than a score of men at Camp Zachary Taylor, where men from Indiana, Illinois and Kentucky are in training for the new National army, clamored at the office of Maj. C. A. Dougherty, division signal officer, as soon as it became known he had received authority to accept 100 candidates for the aviation service.
Major Dougherty announced that the men would be examined this week, and it is expected that before the time for the examinations the total of applicants will far exceed the number of men wanted. The men accepted will be given practically the same status as the men now attending the officers' reserve corps training camps. They will be paid $100 a month during the period of instruction, and those who qualify as flyers will be commissioned first lieutenants.

$750,000 FIRE AT YARDS

14,300 Head of Cattle and Hogs Killed at Kansas City, Mo.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 17.—Reports that the fire which destroyed a large portion of the Kansas City stock yards and resulted in the death of approximately 11,000 cattle and 3,300 hogs was of incendiary origin persisted here, though discredited by officials of the corporation owning the yards.
While no definite estimates have as yet been made of the loss entailed by the conflagration, insurance adjusters and officials of the stock-yards corporation place the loss at approximately $750,000. During the afternoon many cattle which had escaped the fire were dying in the yards. Brokers reported losses in cattle which had strayed from the yards when the herds were liberated to escape burning.

BRITAIN FOR AIR REPRISALS

Bonar Law Says German Towns Will Be Bombarded.

London, Oct. 17.—Great Britain announced formally her intention to make reprisals for the air raids of the Germans over London and other unfortified towns. Bonar Law, chancellor of the exchequer, made the announcement in the house of commons soon after parliament reassembled, after a recess of two months. He said the government intends to make air raids and bombard German towns so far as the military needs will release the necessary machines.

"LIKE A LETTER FROM HOME TO THE BOYS GONE TO WAR"

THAT is what The Dixon Evening Telegraph will mean to the boys who have gone from this county and this city to enter the training camps and various branches of the army and navy.

News of their home, their friends, and the happenings of the community will mean more to these boys who have gone to defend the nation's honor than can be estimated in words.

The Evening Telegraph costs $3.00 per year, $2.00 for six months, and $1.00 for three months, sent by mail anywhere in the United States.

If your boy has gone to war, send him his home paper. If you have no boy in the army, send the paper to some one else's boy. You may be sure of his appreciation.

CALL COAL STRIKE "OPEN REBELLION"

Miners in Illinois Quit Because of Failure of Garfield to Order Wage Boost.

SUPPLY CUT 75,000 TONS

Walkout of 35,000 Miners in Four States Called Off by Union After Administrator Sends Warning of Drastic Action.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—John E. Williams, newly appointed federal coal administrator for Illinois, sent a report on the Illinois coal mine strike situation indicating that fully 75,000 tons a day of production had been cut off, that there was fear of the trouble spreading and that immediate action was urgent.

The fuel administrator and the miners' union officials joined in declaring the situation to be one of open rebellion, existing wage agreements being regarded as "scraps of paper."

The trouble was precipitated by the failure of National Administrator Garfield to order immediate increases in Illinois coal prices and of the mine operators in turn to put extra pay in the miners' envelopes.

It became known that a report containing estimates of the amount which should be added to the price of a ton of coal at the mines to cover the wage increase has been in course of production and should be ready in a day or two. It was said in Washington that the failure to receive this report had made it impossible for Mr. Garfield to approve the wage agreement.

Arrangement in Doubt.

Whether an arrangement can be effected which will include an increase in the pay check which caused the walkout is doubtful, it being said that the report was predicated on the increase becoming effective on next pay day, November 1. In Washington Mr. Garfield and his advisers conferred regarding the Illinois situation, and efforts will be made at once to induce the miners to resume work.

Waits on Report.

Rough estimates have been made that it would be necessary to raise the price of coal at the mines from 30 to 50 cents a ton. Until the report is made, however, Mr. Garfield will have no way of determining the exact amount.

That he is determined to prevent strikes if possible was indicated in action taken in connection with the situation in southwestern states. As soon as he heard that 35,000 men in the Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Arkansas mine fields were planning to walk out he sent telegrams to heads of local unions declaring that strikes must not take place and warned them he would use "every power committed to him" to prevent them. He urged them to send a committee to Washington.

This appeal, along with one sent out by John P. White, president of the National Miners' union, ordering the men to stay at work, had its effect, and the strike was called off.

Message of Garfield.

In his message, Mr. Garfield said: "I am informed that the officers of your national association have appealed to you to use every effort in your power to avert a strike at this time, in view of the national situation and the great task imposed on President Wilson. Strikes must not take place. The terms of the agreement agreed upon at Washington between operators and miners are fair.

"I shall use every power committed to me to prevent strikes and warn you against allowing the order to stand."

Cutting off 75,000 tons of daily production would practically paralyze the industry in the state, and with cold weather but a short time off and manufacturing concerns running night and day to meet the war order emergency, the situation would become critical within two or three days' time.

Miners Near St. Louis Go Out.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 17.—Miners struck at several mines near Belleville, Ill., at some of the mines of the Southern Coal, Coke and Mining company, at two Donk Bros' mines at Collinsville and Maryville, Ill., and at the Lunaghi mines at Maryville. Altogether about twenty mines in the Illinois field near St. Louis were affected.

Ten Thousand Strike in Illinois. Springfield, Ill., Oct. 17.—Ten thousand miners in central Illinois are on strike asking a ten per cent increase in wages.

Immediately reports were that the mines at Belleville and in Madison county also were out.

Other States Affected.

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 17.—Coal operators here expected a general strike of miners in Illinois, Indiana, Pennsylvania and West Virginia, following the reported walkout of 6,000 miners in the Springfield district. It was expected that the men in the Peoria district would go out by night.

Iowa Man Second at Traps. St. Joseph, Mo., Oct. 17.—Hal Waggoner of Dillon, Neb., took high honors at the forenoon session of the western open trapshooting tournament with a score of 24 targets out of a possible 25. Dr. C. G. Story of Sheridan, Ia., was second with 23. The entries brought the total to more than 100 and seven states were represented.

WAR WILL BE WON BY LAST DOLLAR

By THOMAS H. BARRY, Major General U. S. Army, Commanding at Camp Grant, Rockford, Illinois.

The United States is now engaged in a GREAT WAR.

It is no ordinary war. It is the culmination of a struggle centuries old between two forms of government opposed to each other—Autocracy and Democracy.

Under Autocracy the government dictates to its people.

Under Democracy the people dictate to their government.

Under the one the people are servants of the government.

Under the other the government is the servant of the people.

The government of the United States is a great democracy. The central thought of its fundamental law is HUMAN LIBERTY. It was established by our forefathers and bequeathed to us. For nearly a century and a half we have lived under it in the fullest measure of human liberty that any people have ever enjoyed.

We are at WAR to preserve the principle of Democracy.

Upon VICTORY depends whether we shall continue to enjoy our liberties or whether they shall be curtailed or terminated by Autocratic Will.

If there be a man or woman living under the Stars and Stripes who has enjoyed the privileges that our flag symbolizes, it is his or her duty, to ancestors and progeny, liberally to contribute to Victory.

Munitions! Munitions!

To achieve Victory, the government must have MIGHT and MUNITIONS. Its MIGHT is in its young men. It takes money to get MUNITIONS. In response to the call for Might the young men have come forward unflinchingly—but they are useless without Munitions.

The Government now calls for money.

No man or woman who has shared in the benefits of Liberty and Freedom—guaranteed by our government and which are now assailed—can withhold their means without failing in their duty to their government and to the men who have gallantly responded to its call. To withhold money will discourage our armies and give comfort to our enemy.

To provide money the government is issuing bonds, popularly known as LIBERTY BONDS in amounts so small that they are within reach of all.

JUST AS THERE IS A LAST STRAW THAT BREAKS THE CAMEL'S BACK, SO THERE IS A LAST DOLLAR THAT WILL WIN THIS WAR.

I therefore urge everyone who can spare that Last Dollar to place it at the disposal of the government with the satisfaction and thought that it may be that last dollar that will win the War and preserve the wives, mothers and sweethearts from the indignities in the next generation which those of Belgium are suffering now.

Every community, no matter how small or isolated, is expected by the United States government to stage some kind of a demonstration in the interest of the Liberty Loan. Patriotic mass meetings are finding much favor in almost all parts of the nation and entertainment "geniuses" are putting on many attractive "side shows" in connection with them. An abundance of patriotic music is provided at all the meetings.

SUGAR SHORTAGE IN EAST

No Prospect of Relief Before November—Prices Unchanged.

Washington, Oct. 17.—The eastern states face a sugar shortage, with no prospect of relief before late in November, when the new Hawaiian and western beet crops arrive. In a statement forecasting the shortage the food administration again appealed to the American people to cut down their consumption of candy and sweet drinks, and at the same time gave warning that retailers already have received their stocks at prices recently agreed upon and the public should pay no more during the temporary scarcity in the East than it has been paying during the last thirty days.

IOWA WETS DEFEAT DRIES

Des Moines, Ia., Oct. 17.—With 96 out of 99 counties complete, with the exception of 21 scattered precincts, Monday's vote on the constitutional prohibition amendment stood 196,341 for to 197,297 against, a lead of 956 for the wets. The three counties to be heard from are Butler, Adair and Fremont.

JIM DALE.

By ELLIS PARKER BUTLER. Young Jimmy Dale, across our street, Is just a gawky lad. He grew so fast, the doctors said, His heart was mighty bad.

They wouldn't let him do much work, Or any heavy play. But, just the same, they drafted Jim, And Jim has gone away.

Jim was a sort of great, big kid, And fooling like the while. So, when they ordered him to camp, He went there with a smile.

Jim Dale is in the army now. Lank legs, bum heart and all, To fight like other drafted men That got the country's call.

God, yes! Jim's heart may drop him dead Or he may live to be Shot all to pieces "over there"—What odds to you or me?

By thunder! It's these odds to you: If kids like Jim can go, With smiles, to fight our wars for us, We can put up the dough!

If we can buy a bond or two, And don't, while Jim, poor cuss, Goes smiling off to death or wounds—Then hell's too good for us!

AUTOMOBILISTS, ATTENTION!

Every motorist in the United States is expected to paste on the wind shield of his machine one of the Liberty loan posters provided by the government. The publicity department of the Liberty Loan executive committee of the Seventh Federal Reserve district has sent out such a poster to every registered owner of an automobile in this district.

There is no excuse for any automobile to appear in public without one of these posters pasted on the wind shield.

Do your share, Mr. Motorist, in aiding the government to float this bond issue and win the war.

Shall we buy Liberty bonds, or pay indemnities to the Kaiser? We've got to do one or the other. Which will you choose?

ARMY CALLS FOR YOU

Have you a relative in the army or navy?

Every one of the thousands of men called to the defense of the United States in this war against Germany must be taken care of by the government—furnished with suitable clothing, arms, etc.

What have you done to help furnish equipment for your relative? It is your money that must do it, for the government is dependent upon the people for its support. What is not freely loaned at good rates of interest must be secured by taxation, with no return to you.

Here are some of the things your money can do for the men in the army and navy:

A $50 bond will supply four months' sustenance in the field for one man.

A $100 bond will supply 200 pounds of smokeless powder.

A $200 bond will supply complete uniform and outfit for four navy men.

A $500 bond will supply 180 gas masks.

A $1,000 bond will supply gasoline enough to drive a submarine 2,000 miles.

A $2,000 bond will supply 520 13-pound shells to destroy submarines.

Will you buy a bond of the second Liberty loan and help win the war?

PRIVILEGE TO SUPPORT LOAN

By CALEB H. CANBY. Former President, Chicago Board of Trade.

The United States is engaged in a righteous war, a war upon the result of which depends not only the future of free representative governments in all parts of the world, but the future peace and prosperity of all peoples.

Every man, woman and child, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, should fully appreciate, and I believe does appreciate, the fact, that it is a duty of the highest order, and a privilege greater than any other, to support the second installment of the Liberty Loan, which will help to bring the war to a successful and early conclusion.

There will be presented to us October 1st the opportunity to perform this vital service for our country. This service calls for practically no personal sacrifice other than the investment of our surplus funds in a security of the highest order based upon practically all the vast resources of the United States.

No subject is of greater importance to each of us personally, and from the standpoint of self-interest as well as patriotism we should one and all give this loan our hearty support, with the thought constantly in our minds that upon us in this essential matter depends to a large degree not only our future peace and happiness, but the peace, happiness and prosperity of our children and our children's children.

WHY WE DID IT.

By ELLIS PARKER BUTLER, Humorous Writer.

In our little town of Flushing, on Long Island, with less than 20,000 inhabitants, we took subscriptions for the first Liberty Loan issue to a total of $1,044,000, or an amount equal to one $50 bond for every man, woman, youth and baby in the town. This amount was subscribed through the three local banks. Most of our citizens do business in New York and many are connected with financial institutions there or subscribed in New York before our campaign was started. Flushing probably took $2,000,000 of the first issue. Although several long-term payment plans were in operation, the bulk of these bonds have been paid for now. Flushing will buy more than her share of the new issue. Why?

Those who bought bonds bought them for two reasons—patriotism and investment. A great many who bought from patriotic motives have discovered that it is easier than they ever imagined to save money. They were glad to help Uncle Sam; now they are glad to own bonds. In Flushing, those who bought Liberty Bonds will buy more because they have found it the easiest way to save money; those who did not buy before will buy now, because they have neighbors who tell them they were foolish to miss the first chance.

The seventh federal reserve district, which comprises parts of Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and Wisconsin and all of Iowa, is shooting at a $700,000,000 target in this campaign. Only the united efforts of all the people, rich and poor, high and low, great and small, will enable the district to "ring the bell."

And remember, while pondering your answer to that question, that a Liberty bond pays 4 per cent interest and is as good as minted gold.

BEST MEAT FOR U. S. TROOPS

Full Support Promised to Government by Packers.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—A resolution pledging the co-operation of their industry in the campaign of President Wilson and the food administration to conserve the nation's food supplies was applauded and adopted unanimously at the closing session of the American Meat Packers' association's convention. The resolution was offered by Gen. Michael Ryan of Cincinnati. In it the packers promise that they will send the soldiers the best foodstuffs to be had at a price as near cost as possible. They agree to comply with all regulations of the food administration and to sell meat products to the general public at as low a figure as possible.

NEW TROOPS WORKING HARD

War Office Pleased Over National Army's Spirit.

Washington, Oct. 17.—Men of the National army are developing a spirit that augurs well for the future of the force, informal reports reaching the war department from several cantonments show. The young soldiers are throwing themselves into the work with a zeal that has aroused the enthusiasm of their officers. Especially gratifying to officials are reports from Camp Grant, Rockford, Ill., and Camp Devens, Ayer, Mass., and in order to learn the spirit of the men at all training camps the department decided to call upon divisional commanders for reports.

PICKETS GIVEN SIX MONTHS

Washington Suffragists to Serve Long Terms in Workhouse.

Washington, Oct. 17.—The police courts swung back to the workhouse sentence policy in dealing with militants of the woman's party picketing the White House. Four arrested yesterday were today sentenced to terms of six months, the heaviest sentence yet imposed on any. The defendant women told the court there would be more picketing soon.

GERMANS TAKE 2,400 RUSSIANS

Berlin, Oct. 17.—The Germans have taken full possession of the main portion of Oesel island at the entrance to the Gulf of Riga and have also occupied the islands of Runo and Abro in the Gulf of Riga, the war office reports. The Russians have been isolated on Svorh peninsula and are offering desperate resistance.

On Oesel island the Germans have captured 2,400 prisoners, 30 guns, 21 machine guns and several airplanes, the statement says. The essential part of the Germans' task on the island was accomplished in four days.

[Abro and Runo are small islands, each about three miles long. Abro is off the southern coast of Oesel island, about ten miles from Arensburg. Runo is in the middle of the gulf, 20 miles east of the Courland coast.]

Foe Loses Two Warships.

Petrograd, Oct. 17.—The German landing force on the Russian island of Oesel is developing its success, the Russian war office announced, and the Teutons are being re-enforced with additional troops.

The Germans have instituted an offensive against the Svorh peninsula, in the southwestern section of the island, with the object of capturing the Russian batteries at Serel. These batteries cover the entrance to the Gulf of Riga.

Two German torpedo-boats were sunk, two others were damaged and one Russian torpedo-boat went to the bottom in an engagement on Sunday in Socha sound, north of Oesel island, the official statement announces. The Russian torpedo-boat sunk was the Grom (destroyer of 1,100 tons, built in 1914-15, speed three-four knots, complement 93 men).

Sugar in 25 lb sack is very scarce and hard to get and mostly held at a premium. Will discontinue to handle them until market is nearer normal. Old cane Sugar (1916 crop) very scarce and as it does not come under the Food Control Bill—it is held at a stiff premium over the New Beet Sugar. On the 1917 crop, so far, the Government will not allow any difference in price between Cane and Beet Sugar—as there is no difference nor never has been any difference between the two sugars.

Nothing But the Nisco Spreader for Us.

Any old machine that would just carry manure to the field and dump it on the ground wasn't good enough for us. When one of our customers came in and said, "I need a manure spreader, we wanted to point to a machine and say 'There, brother, is the spreader that handles manure best, pays for itself soonest and lasts longest. That machine we can honestly recommend.'"

Naturally we investigated Manure Spreaders; and we've taken the agency for a machine that actually measures up to the ideal we had set in our own mind. This machine is called the

And we want every farmer in our territory to come in and see it! The machine is a mechanical marvel. It pulverizes and spreads a full load over three corn rows in three minutes. Here are some of the many good points of this wonderful spreader—see if they don't sound good to you. Low down and easily loaded. Wide-tired wheels—hence the machine is light draft. Chain conveyor carries all the load to the two cylinders, where it is thoroughly pulverized. Rapidly revolving steel paddles distribute this finely pulverized manure evenly. Can be set, by a convenient hand lever, to spread 3, 6, 9, 12, 15, 18 loads per acre. Positive chain drive—no possibility of clogging. Strongly built and able to stand steady usage year in and year out. This machine is

CHAPTER IV.
Herr Skopf's Mystery.

The killing of the friendless old Russian by his great trained ape was a matter for newspaper comment for a few days. Lord Greytoke read of it and, while taking special precautions not to permit his name to become connected with the affair, kept himself well posted as to the police search for the anthropoid.

As was true of the general public, his chief interest in the matter centered about the mysterious disappearance of the ape, or at least this was true until he learned several days subsequent to the tragedy that his son Jack had not reported at the boarding school, en route for which they had seen him safely ensconced in a railway carriage.

Even then the father did not connect the disappearance of his son with the mystery surrounding the whereabouts of the ape, nor was it until a month later that careful investigation revealed the fact that the boy had left the train before it pulled out of the station at London and the cab driver had been found who had driven him to the address of the old Russian that Tarzan of the Apes realized that Akut had in some way been connected with the disappearance of the boy.

Beyond the moment that the cab driver had deposited his fare beside the curb in front of the house in which the Russian had been quartered there was no clue. No one had seen either the boy or the ape from that instant, at least no one who still lived. The proprietor of the house identified the picture of the lad as that of one who had been a frequent visitor in the room of the old man. Aside from this he knew nothing.

And there at the door of a grimy old building in the slums of London the searchers came to a blank wall—baffled.

The day following the death of Alexis Ivanovich a youth accompanying his invalid grandmother boarded a steamer at Dover. The old lady was heavily veiled and so well-versed by age and sickness that she failed to be wheeled aboard the vessel in an invalid chair.

The boy would permit no one but himself to wheel her and with his own hands assisted her from the chair to the interior of their stateroom—and that was the last that was seen of the old lady by the ship's company until the pair disembarked. The boy even insisted upon doing the work of their cabin steward. Since, as he explained, his grandmother was suffering from a nervous indisposition that made the presence of strangers extremely distasteful to her.

Among the passengers there was an American named Conlon, a blackie and a crook, who was "wanted" in half a dozen of the larger cities of the United States. He had paid little attention to the boy until on one occasion he had seen him accidentally display a roll of banknotes. From then on Conlon cultivated the youthful Briton.

He learned easily enough that the boy was traveling alone with his invalid grandmother and that their destination was a small port on the west coast of Africa, a little below the equator; that their name was Billings and that they had no friends in the little settlement for which they were bound. Upon the point of their purpose in visiting the place, Conlon found the boy reticent, and so he did not push the matter—he had learned all that he cared to know as it was.

At last came the day that the steamer dropped anchor in the lee of a wooded promontory, where a score or more of sheet iron shacks, making an unsightly blot upon the fair face of nature, proclaimed the fact that civilization had set its heel. Struggling upon the outskirts were the thatched huts of natives, picturesque in their primitive savagery, harmonizing with the background of tropical jungle and accentuating the squalid hideousness of the white man's pioneer architecture.

The boy, leaning over the rail, was looking far beyond the man-made town, deep into the God-made jungle. A little shiver of anticipation tingled his spine, and then, quite without volition, he found himself mentally gazing into the loving eyes of his mother and the strong face of the father which nurtured beneath its masculine strength a love no less than the mother's eyes proclaimed. He felt himself weakened in his resolve.

The task of lowering the boy's grandmother over the side to a waiting canoe was rather difficult. The lad insisted on being always at her side, and when at last she was safely ensconced in the bottom of the craft that was to bear them shoreward her grandson dropped cutlike after her.

So interested was he in seeing her comfortably disposed that he failed to observe the little package that had worked from his pocket as he sat in lowering the sling that contained the old woman over the steamer's side, nor did he notice it even as it slipped man. He knew Akut had killed him in his defense, as he had killed Ivanovich. But here in savage Africa, far from home and friends, what would they do to him and his faithful ape?

The lad knew that the penalty of murder was death. He even knew that an accomplice might suffer the death penalty with the principal. Who was there here who would plead for them? All would be against them. It was little more than a half civilized community, and the chances were that they would drag Akut and him forth in the morning and hang them both to the nearest tree. He had read of such things being done in America, and Africa was worse even and wilder than the great west of his mother's native land.

Yes, they would both be hanged in the morning.

Last evening he had been determined to start for home at the first opportunity to beg the forgiveness of his parents for this mad adventure. Now he knew that he might never return to them. The blood of a fellow man was upon his hands. In his morbid reflection he had long since ceased to attribute the death of Conlon to the ape. The hysteria of panic had fastened the guilt upon himself.

Now he turned toward Akut. "Come!" he said in the language of the great apes. Forgetful of the act that he wore only a thin palm-leaf suit, he led the way to the open window. Thrusting his head out, he listened attentively. A single tree grew a few feet from the window.

Slenderly the lad sprang to his bole, clinging cutlike for an instant before he clambered quietly to the ground below. Close behind him came the great ape. Two hundred yards away a spur of the jungle ran close to the straggling town. Toward this the lad led the way.

No one saw them, and a moment later the jungle swallowed them, and John Clayton, future Lord Greytoke, passed from the eyes and the knowledge of men.

It was late the following morning that a native house man knocked upon the door of the room that had been assigned to Mrs. Billings and her grandson. Receiving no response, he inserted his pass key in the lock, only to discover that another key was already there, but from the inside.

He reported the fact to Herr Skopf, the proprietor, who at once made his way to the second floor, where he, too, pounded vigorously upon the door. Receiving no reply, he bent to the key-hole in an attempt to look through into the room beyond. In so doing, being partly, he lost his balance, which necessitated putting a palm to the floor to maintain his equilibrium.

As he did so he felt something soft and thick and wet beneath his fingers. He raised his open palm before his eyes in the dim light of the corridor and peered at it. Then he shuddered, for even in the semidarkness he saw a dark red stain upon his hand.

Leaping to his feet, he hurried his shoulder against the door. Herr Skopf was a heavy man. The frail door collapsed beneath his weight, and Herr Skopf stumbled precipitately into the room.

Before him lay the greatest mystery of his life. Upon the floor at his feet was the dead body of a strange man. The neck was broken and the jugular severed as by the fangs of a wild beast. The old lady and her grandson were gone. The window was open.

They must have disappeared through the window, for the door had been locked from the inside.

But how could the boy have carried his invalid grandmother from a second story window to the ground? It was preposterous. Again Herr Skopf searched the small room. He noticed that the bed was pulled well away from the wall. Why? He looked beneath it again for the third or fourth time. The two were gone, and yet his judgment told him that the old lady could not have gone without porters to carry her down as they had carried her up the previous day.

Further search but deepened the mystery. All the clothing of the two was still in the room. If they had gone they they must have gone naked or in their night clothes.

No boat had left the harbor in the meantime. There was not a railroad within hundreds of miles. There was no other white settlement that the two could reach under several days of arduous marching, accompanied by a well equipped safari. They had simply vanished into thin air, for the native he had sent to inspect the ground beneath the open window had just returned to report that there was no sign of a footstep there, and what sort of creatures were they who could have dropped that distance to the soft turf without leaving spoor?

Herr Skopf shuddered. Yes, it was a great mystery. There was something uncanny about the whole thing. He hated to think about it, and he dreaded the coming of night.

It was a great mystery to Herr Skopf and doubtless still is.

HOW TO MAKE SOUPS THAT NOURISH

Thick Soups, Broths and Chowders a Meal in Themselves and an Excellent Use for Left Overs.

Although clear soups, which are largely water, contain little nourishment, some thick soups, broths and chowders are literally a meal in themselves, according to the dietary specialists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Even a thin soup, taken at the beginning of a meal, by its warmth and pleasant flavor may stimulate digestion so that the heavier foods are more easily digested. The combination of soup and bread is pleasant and leads to the eating of more bread or crackers than would be consumed ordinarily. Appetizing soups also may be made often of materials which otherwise would be wasted. In this way such materials are made to contribute whatever food value they may have for the cost of the labor and fuel needed to prepare them.

One of the purposes which food serves in the body is to furnish energy for its muscular work, and one way of comparing the relative food value of different food is to compare the amounts of energy which they furnish or, as physiologists call it, their fuel values. A cup (i. e., 1/2 pint or a large soup plateful) of milk soup flavored with vegetables yields a little more energy to the body than the same amount of milk. A thick meat soup with pieces of meat and vegetables in it, a fish chowder, or a rich vegetable soup such as cream of tomato, yields half again as much energy as the milk, while a thin soup like bouillon, consommé, or clear tomato soup, yields not quite two-thirds as much as the milk, and less than half as much as the thick soup or chowder. A generous serving of thick meat soup or fish chowder yields more energy than an ordinary portion of roast beef, and even a moderate helping of vegetable milk soup usually furnishes fully as much body fuel as a moderate sized rib chop of lamb.

There are other things to be considered besides energy in connection with the food value of different kinds of food. One is the amount of the substance called protein without which the body can not build and maintain its tissues. Meat and milk soups contribute some of the needed protein. Meat, poultry, fish, eggs, milk, cheese, dried peas, beans, and other legumes are the common foods in which protein is most abundant though it also appears in small amounts in the cereal foods such as bread, breakfast foods, macaroni, rice, and the like.

Since many of the protein-rich foods are among the most expensive of those in common use, it is especially important to make the fullest possible use of what is bought. Not all of the meat which we buy is suitable for use as such. The masses of fat which are trimmed off before cooking or are left on the platters may be saved, rendered and used in cooking, while the bones, gristle and other refuse parts find their best use in the soup pot where the long, slow cooking in water draws out the gelatin, fat and other nutritive material they contain. This stock, as the resulting liquid is called, may serve as the basis not only of a great variety of soups, but also of gravies and sauces, and may be used for cooking vegetables, rice and similar foods. When it is used for soup, its flavor may be varied by adding various vegetables, such as carrots, onions, tomatoes, turnips, and celery. It may be thickened with flour, bread crumbs, or okra. Boiled rice, barley, macaroni, and other pastes and croutons (small pieces of stale bread fried a delicate brown in deep fat) may be put in to increase the food value of soup and vary its appearance and taste.

Soup is not necessarily made from meat stock. Vegetable soups or purees are made by boiling potatoes, beans, peas or other vegetables until soft, mashing through a little liquid (water, milk, soup stock or whatever seems desirable) and flavoring. Using left-over vegetables for such purees is an economical practice. Milk soups, which are really thickened and flavored with some vegetable, fish, or other food to give flavor and perhaps thickened still more with a little flour or stale bread crumbs, are both nutritious and appetizing. They furnish also an excellent means of using up skim milk. Those who wish to bring down the cost of food should remember that skim milk, a cup of which contains as much protein as a cup of whole milk, is far too valuable a food to be overlooked.

In soup making it should not be forgotten that vegetables are necessary for keeping the body in health, because they are relatively rich in mineral matters and mild vegetable acids, and contain recently discovered substances without which the body processes seem not to be carried on properly. Since soups offer an excellent way of utilizing odds and ends of vegetables, and especially left overs and parts which otherwise would be wasted, the use of vegetable soup is often a real economy. The fact that soups can be given so many and so varied flavors, are so easily made, so generally relished, and made such palatable combinations with large quantities of bread and crackers

NURSE HAD POOR HEALTH

Suffered Much Pain, Yet Had to Work. Finally Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Toledo, Ohio.—"I am a widow and go out nursing, and suffered from a female trouble that caused a great deal of soreness across my back, and through my abdomen. Sometimes it would be very painful after a hard day's work. I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and tried it and it has helped me wonderfully, so the soreness is all gone now."

I believe Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is just the remedy for female troubles. —Mrs. ELIZABETH JOHN, R. F. D. No. 4, Toledo, Ohio.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and today is regarded as the most successful remedy for female ills. There are thousands of voluntary testimonials on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., to prove this fact.

Keeping Yourself Well

Run Down, Aching

people need a good tonic that will send the blood tingling through the body, enrich it by improving the digestion, and clean it by expelling the waste matter. Health is a matter of plenty of rich blood, free from impurities.

PERUNA

dispels inflammation of the blood making organs, —the digestion—gives tone and "pep" to the membranes that line the lungs and the digestive tract, and invigorates the entire system.

You can have health if you take care of yourself and take Peruna when you need it. At your druggists.

PREHISTORIC MONSTER LOST

Bones of Dinosaurs Go Down With Torpedoed Boat.

Two skeletons of the duckbill dinosaur were lost to science with the sinking by a German raider of the ship Mont Temple, according to Charles H. Sternberg of Lawrence, Kan., who found the bones in the Red Deer country in Alberta, Canada.

The prehistoric monsters were thirty-two feet long and were on their way to the British Museum, Mr. Sternberg said. They filled twenty-two boxes and weighed 20,000 pounds.

When the shipments failed to arrive in England an inquiry was instituted by Mr. Sternberg. He was informed of the loss by Canadian railroad officials.

"Burning Bush" Remarkable Plant.

The "Burning Bush" which is known to botanists as the Dictamnus fraxinella, is regarded as one of the most wonderful plants in the world. This plant is native to western Asia, though it is now found in some gardens of the temperate zone. In connection with the Dictamnus it is rather remarkable that the species is common where the incident of Moses and the Burning Bush is said to have occurred.
